Highly recommended by many ABs. They are AB aware, but not everyone in the company wants to hear about it.

(Updated 1994-05-18 by durgan)

Note from Grumpy Bear

I highly recommend style #10500 (Velcro Closure Briefs). They are identical to the baby sized ones. The velcro system was well thought out by employing a full strip across the front of the diaper. They even went so far as to provide extra strip of (eye material) that neatly covers the (hook material) from collecting fuzzballs in the drier. DPF sells the exact same diaper, for about $4(US) more than you can obtain them from Babykins.

Started off as a medical supplier to incontinent folks, but soon included the unrealized AB market in her product line. Accepts orders via phone, e-mail, fax, or in person, even by credit card. Still organizing the showroom, but are including more AB specific products every day. Currently include nursery print diapers, plastic pants, rhumba pants, changing pads, onsies, and bibs. Also sell traditional incontinent supplies, including disposable diapers, and will bill insurance.

Works closely with suppliers on new products and designs. Currently trying to develop an AB-specific disposable diaper that is absorbent enough for incontinent people, and also has AB features like a nursery print taping panel.

Peggy occasionally throws parties and other events for her customers as well. Her store is quiet, secluded, well-lit, and non-threatening. A definite place to visit if you are ever near Santa Cruz.

They sell: vinyl pants - pull on and snap on. Wonder diapers - Cotton flannel Diaper pants - Diaper sewn inside vinyl pants Fancy Pants - Vinyl pull on pants with assorted cloth coverings, including Rhumba style.

This company is infantilist aware and quite happy to serve our needs. Apparently Gerber used to have an adult division of vinyl products, and later decided that this division was not profitable and shut it down. Two former employees bought out the patents and other necessary legal stuff to manufacture the old Gerber adult products under the name Vinyl Incontinent Products.

They have both pull-on and snap-on variety plastic pants. They range in price from US$8.15 - $10.00. They also have plastic pants with an absorbant liner, cloth diapers, "fancy" plastic pants, and nursery prints. Lace is also available.

Primarily a hospital and health care goods supplier to institutional facilities, but they will sell to the public for individual use. Most of the 712 page catalog is given over to specialty stationery, office equipment, and patient care equipment (wheel chairs, blood pressure monitors, etc.). Urology/Incontinence products include catheters, underpads, rubber sheeting, cloth and disposable diapers.

One variety of disposable diaper they carry advertises leakage control guard "leg-cuffs." From the photo they appear to function more like the elastic gathers on Attends or Depends, rather than the "leak-guards" on baby diapers or Goodnites (which are in addition to the standard elasticized leg openings).

Diapers and waterproof pants. They also sell a diaper doubler and Nikky like products for adults. Orders out in 3-4 days.

New customers calling the 800 number should be prepared to state their 'medical diagnosis' and date of birth. While the order clerk was, in the end, extremely friendly and helpful, I was taken aback by the questions. She said they asked the questions to help recommend the appropriate products, and that they liked to send out birthday cards to customers.

Duraline's catalog does not list 'Rubber Duckies' though they sell nylon waterproof pants (which appear similar if not identical) under the name 'dura tex.' Duraline also carries Molicare diapers.

'Discreet packaging' is available ON REQUEST ONLY.

Comparison of prices between Duraline and HDIS (Home Incontinent Delivery Service) based on catalogs received 12/1/94 shows HDIS cheaper for Attends, Tranquility Booster pads, and other items.

Duraline allows you to create your own sample pack of various diaper brands. Call them for more details.

They manufacture Adult printed incontinent briefs, similar to Babykins. But they have elastic at the front and back, and a much wider side with two velco strips. They also make a wide range of light, moderate, and heavy incontinent pants.

One person recommends their All-In-One brief. It is the only product they have seen that uses modern materials to their fullest. The waterproof outer layer is lined with a non-wicking soft lining, so it doesn't leak. It holds huge amounts. In addition, it has a wide crotch, making it a bit awkward to put one's legs together [only in the AB world is this considered a feature ;-)].

This address is out of date, they have moved to Kenet Sq., PA. However they do not sell diapers or waterproof pants. They sell the "roll goods," that is the fiber fill or felt to manufactures of disposable diapers. They sell to manufacturers only. I would have outright removed them from the list, but this way you know why they are no longer on the list.

This is the division of the R. Duck company tasked with selling their adult products. They have Rubber Duckies for adults in a wide variety of colors, in addition to other reusable products. They also sell Guppies in adult sizes. This is a pair of nylon sports shorts with integrated waterproof pants. Highly recommended.

Phone number listed is no longer in service. Directory assistance for Santa Barbara has no listing. (21-DEC-94, Munchkin)

Letters get returned as of March 1995. As far as anyone can tell they are out of business. (1995-09-02 by McLace@aol.com)

Solefully Yours

I was contacted by this company and they requested that they be removed from this list. They said that they only deal with foot fetish and tickling videos, and they were getting a lot of calls from disappointed ABs.

It is a newsletter and is published about every other month and it is free. It concentrates on being an unbiased resource guild, philosophy, tidbits and cute stories. It doesn't have anything that is overtly sexual. I have no idea if this newsletter has any infantilist content, I just got random e-mail about it.

Sells TV / AB items. Has b/w line art catalog. Has AB club, and fantasy phone line. Ashley loves AB's and will take custom orders for clothes. She is slow but honest.

Ashley is very friendly, and is just starting an AB club. If you order her catalog $19 MO, Visa, or MC she will put you on the list and inform you of specifics when she has finalized plans for the club. All of Ashley's items are hand crafted and made to order.

I find her very easy to talk with and I am sure that she could arrange custom orders since all of her work is done by a seamstress. PS. She seems to be friends with Baby Mike of ABS. (21-DEC-94, Munchkin)
